FLAT DUMBBELL PRESS

STEP 1 SETUP

Grab a pair of dumbbells and sit on the edge of a flat bench. Kick up the dumbbells one at a time as you lay back on the bench to get them into position with your arms straight over your shoulders. Pull your shoulder blades down away from your ears and pinch them together to create a small space between your lower back and the bench. Firmly plant your feet on the ground.

STEP 2

Brace your core and then control the weight down by dropping your elbows to about a 45 to 60 degree angle from your torso. Allow your hands to naturally turn in slightly. Continue lowering until the weights reach around the level of your torso, or as low as is comfortable for you.

STEP 3

Use your chest to push the weight back up until your arms are fully locked out and directly over your shoulders. Think about pulling your arms together as if you were trying to touch your biceps together to move the weight up.
